GAME WARDENS SEARCH HOUSE

SEINE AND GIG FOUND IN RESIDENCE OF SAM HATHAWAY IN REELSVILLE—MAN IS ARRESTED AND FINED.

IT COST HIM JUST $36

The visit of two game wardens at the home of Sam Hathaway a Van-lala section hand, in Reelsville, Friday morning, resulted in a warrant for Hathaway's arrest and later in the day the payment of a fine amounting to $36.

The game wardens accompanied by Constable Crawley left Greencastle at near 6 o'clock Friday morning and drove to Hathaway's house. They carried a search warrant. In the home they found a seine and gig, the latter used to spear fish.

Hathaway immediately was arrested and later in the day appeared in Squire Frank's court where he was fined $36. He pleaded guilty to the charge of having a seine in his possession. The seine and gig which were brought to Greencastle were destroyed by the wardens. It is said that the wardens have evidence against several other men in the county and that other arrests will follow.

Miss Blanche Dillinger is in Indianapolis for a few days' visit.

Dr. McConnell will preach at the regular university service tomorrow afternoon.

Captain Wilbur Starr will sing two selections from the Oratorio Elijah at the Sacred Concert at College Avenue church Sunday night. Mrs. Hurst, a string quartet and a ladies' quartet will also assist the choir.

Miss Iva Jordan, Miss Leona Rogers, Charles Kennedy and Homer Newton, of Romney, spent the day here with Louis Hays.

WEDDING BELLS AT HOUSTON TEXAS

ROBERT LEWIS RENICK, FORMER GREENCASLE BOY, CLAIMS SOUTHERN BRIDE—WILL MAKE HOME AT COLD SPRINGS, TEXAS.

GROOM IS WELL KNOWN HERE

A quiet pretty wedding was solemnized last evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. F. W. Bridges, uniting in marriage her daughter, Saidee, to Robert Lewis Renick, only the families and immediate relatives being present at the ceremony.

The golden-hued nasturtium supplied the floral embellishment against a back ground of foliage and southern smilax, graduated palms and ferns forming an improvised altar in the parlor of nasturtiums and ferns.

In the dining room the table had a covering of cluny lace with central vase of nasturtiums and ferns. Crystal candlesticks completed the effect.

Reverend Sam Hay performed the ceremony, and the wedding music was rendered by Miss Margaret Scott, who presided at the piano.

The bride and groom were unattended and the former was handsomely gowned in a traveling suit of cloth of gold with hand-embroidered marquisette blouse, and hat to correspond in color. She carried a bouquet of bride roses ferns.

Mrs. Bridges was gowned in black shantung, trimmed with Irish lace and Mrs. Renick wore a beautiful gown of black silk trimmed with Irish lace.

A large number of handsome presents evidenced a wide circle of friends and the young couple left on the 9:30 train for a trip to San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. Renick will be at home in Cold Springs, Texas after June 1st where a home attractively furnished by the groom's parents awaits them.

The bride is a native of Texas while the groom was formerly from Indiana, a graduate of DePauw University of the class of '06, and a member of the Delta U. fraternity and is a cashier of one of the banks of Cold Springs.—Houston, (Texas,) Post.

Mr. Renick is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Renick, of Houston, Texas, formerly of Greencastle.

MAYBE THE SCARLET CAN?
Crawfordsville Paper Thinks That Wabash May Break the Methodists Winning Streak.

Some team of college baseball players will have to look after that DePauw bunch. They're getting entirely too chesty. A second victory over I. U. in a game played at that city Thursday 6 to 1 has given them a very high opinion of themselves. Both teams played errorless ball but Overman outpitched Winters and Kemp. Uncle Jack Grim, the ex-National leaguer, is putting lots of ginger and confidence into the team. Maybe the Wabash team can reduce the swelling. They'll get an opportunity on Monday afternoon when the Methodists come to this city to play the second of a four game series having defeated the scarlet in the opening game. Overman will pitch for visitors. The admission will be 25 cents.—Crawfordsville Journal.

The Trend Towards Osteopathy

(Editorial Cincinnati Enquirer.)

"The whole tendency of medical thought and experience now is in the direction of abandoning the extensive use of drugs. Just as the teaching of a more liberal religion has softened, if not destroyed, the old orthodox dogmas of original sin, foreordination and eternal hell, the growth of homeopathy and osteopathy have immensely modified the old orthodox allopathic system of bleeding and drastic administration of drugs."

"Both these influences have been sturdily resisted by the standard-bearers in religion and medicine, but both have largely succeeded. Insurgency is the order of the day everywhere. The more recent influence which has helped to reduce drug-giving has been the coming of osteopathy, which has found its way to reluctant recognition."

"It has been unquestionably demonstrated that many ills for which drugs were being given grew out of osseous (bony) displacements or mal-adjustments, and needed only skillful manipulation."

"Now it is perceived that Nature intended that everyone should be healthy, and that the only cause of diseases are either a mechanical injury or poison or impurities taken into the system or waste remaining there and clogging it. Disease, according to the latest school of thought, is simply the effort of Nature to remove poison and obstructions and should not be suppressed or aborted, but Nature should be aided to sustain the system until the work is completed."

"Nature holds the secret and has the machinery to make whatever is needed to run the human machine without friction or pain when all her parts are correctly adjusted and the wreckage which accumulates in the process of life is cleared away by an expert machinist, the competent osteopath."

"Thousands have arisen to testify that osteopathy restored them to health. Almost daily additional triumphs over so-called incurables are being recorded, evidencing that the osteopaths are finding the keys and opening the seals and coming into possession of the glorious heritage to man-kind—health, through Nature's own methods."

"Here is seen a magnificent growth. Osteopathy—backed by multitudes of witnesses from all walks of life, who attest to its potency and seek its treatment. It is contributing to human happiness and comfort by displacing disease with health."

Increasing patronage bestowed the Spannhurst Osteopaths evidences that the intellectual people of this community appreciate their praiseworthy work. That they are expert body machinists is evidenced by kindly expressions or those who have given their treatment a fair trial. By the sweat of their brow these pioneer osteopaths have earned and are entitled to the confidence and patronage accorded them. Their offices are completely equipped, ground floor, 117 South Jackson street. Still more efficient and effective service is their constant aim. Call and see them on Tuesdays and Fridays. The improvement over old methods will open your eyes and prove gratifying. D-H—May 4-6-10-12—WD: 12.

"SERPENT TONGUE" OF SCANDAL EVEN SHADOWS THRONE

dle Gossip Often Leads to Tragedy and Wrecked Homes.

THE shadow that has for years lain across the life of King George of England, brought here by whispers by innuendoes and the casual gossip of men and women asper for such a morsel, has at last been lifted.

The man who circulated the rumor that the king had been morganatically married to the daughter of Admiral Seymour many years ago is now facing many years in a British prison, and the king and his queen may lift their heads proudly, with the final lullaby to their married happiness lifted forever by actual evidence given in court.

Yet it is more than probable that the whispers will continue behind the throne. The story once begun goes on and on, no matter whether it be true or false and no matter whether the victim is a great king upon his throne or some simple girl living quietly at home.

A contemptuous laugh, a half whispered word, a misconstrued sentence can start the serpent's tongue of gossip, and, swifter than the wireless itself, it goes speeding around, bringing first, bewilderment, then indignation, and finally absolute despair to its victim.

It hasn't been many days since a young wife drank poison, leaving behind her a pathetic little note saying that people had spoken ill of her to her husband, and that all her protests, all her pitiful little proofs of her innocence could not remove the doubt from his mind, and so she did not want to live any more.

Perhaps true love should have cast out all doubt, but, alas! it seldom does, and the man or woman who tells another some story being circulated about a wife or husband has sown the seed of trouble from out of their home.

"I think you ought to know"—"gracious! haven't we all of us learned to dread the disagreeable things which inevitably follow that beginning?"

Haven't we all of us, on the other hand, listened with what is close to eagerness when some one has said, "I heard a story about Mollie or John today. I can't believe it's true; in fact, I told the person who told me that I didn't believe a word of it, but—she said—"

And so the serpent's tongue preads its news and wrecks lives indifferently.

All King George's state, all his wealth, all his power were not enough to stop the rumors that he had wedded twice.

Not enough either to clean the mirror off his wedding and wedding with Princess Mary, and it has for all these years been a bitter wound to the queen's tender heart.

So it is with those of us who suffer here in America. We cannot stop her tongues from clacking about ourselves. But we can stop the endless chain about others.

We can refuse to listen, we can refuse to repeat such things, as we are forced to hear. We can—we women—put a stop to a lot of it if we want to.

For without listeners and without gossipers to pass the story along the scandal is bound to die with its first telling.

SHEER COLLARS WITH LOW NECKED FROCKS

Never have there been so many charming collars for low necked blouses and frocks and in most of them the square-backed arrangement plays an important part.

One is almost inclined to believe that the high-necked arrangements in summer frocks are to be completely tabooed were it not that the designers have supplied, too, an unusually large and varied assortment of standing collars and stocks.

These come separately or in connection with jabots and frills and will be a pretty addition on cool days to the tailored linen suit.

The low flat collars, however, are generally made of fine linen and lawn, daintily embroidered.

A charming little sailor collar to be worn with a linen frock is of sheer white lawn with a dainty hemstitched hem.

HEADACHE NOT REAL DISEASE

Of the everyday ills which the doctor is called upon to cure, headache, perhaps, is the one which receives the least attention.

But the most important thing about a headache is to get rid of it, and this is accomplished by first finding the cause and effecting the cure by removing this cause.

A stomach which is out of order is one of the most frequent causes, and the pain is then accompanied by nausea and gastric symptoms. Another type is often met with in persons of a nervous temperament, and this is generally due to prolonged mental strain, combined with lack of sleep and recreation in which an inadequate supply of blood is sent to the brain blood vessels.

Hysteria, or nervous headache, is prevalent among women. The pain is more or less persistent over a certain area or becomes general, affecting the eyes, ears and muscles of the face and neck.

Often it becomes very severe and the head feels as though it were being pummeled. Nervous headaches are influenced greatly by the individual disposition, emotional temperament, occupation and also the general hygiene.

So with the stomach and nervous headaches, and those which are caused by eye trouble, the causes should be bathed and avoided, for a headache is not a disease, but only a symptom.

SHOPPING IN PAST YEARS

The girl of 1911, with her scoop hat, her hobble skirt, her peasant blouse and velvet shoes, is a continual source of delight to the artists who draw comic pictures, and what she buys and how she buys it are a source of mending controversy and a storm of protest from the male sex.

But out of the shades of the past comes a defense, a cry from the fair ladies of long ago, who used to shop through the same streets and whose shopping list of bargains has come down through the years to us.

We wear gowns of velvet, of cheviot or broadcloth, and blouses of chiffon and mulline, but who—oh, who—can tell us what it was the ladies wore that required the advertising of "tandems, isinghams, nun's gals, gulch, huckabacks, quilted humbugs, turkettes, grasteets and alopecurus?"

Bargains, of course, cried through the town to tempt the ladies to purchase on Fishbourne wharf, where they were taken from the ship in Philadelphia, whence all the ladies at that time went to buy.

Nor were these all of the bargains. There were, too, children's stays, jumps and bodice, whalebone and iron pinks, alibonics, dickmansoy cushions, shuckloes, cutnasses, crimson fanador, chained soosees, byrampants, a say nothing of savillings, prullehoe and druggets.

Think of it! Can't you picture the ladies with their high headresses, their bustles and their brocades, their fans and high-heeled walking shoes, walking through the muddy lanes to the wharf to buy these wonderful new fabrics brought from abroad?

At least it says they were fabrics.

Another fact that the modern girl will smile over is the fact that in those days puffs could not be lightly laid aside at night, and many ladies slept sitting up to preserve the full beauty (?) of her headress.

In fact, the costumes were such as to inspire a poet to the following verses:

Give Chloe a bushel of horse hair and wool,
Of paste and pomatum a pound,
Ten yards of gay ribbon to deck her sweet skull
And gauze to encompass it round.
Let her flags fly behind for a yard at the least,
Let her curls meet just under the chin,
Let these curls be supported to keep up the jest
With a hundred instead of one pin.
Let her gown be tucked up to the hip on each side.
Shoes too high for to walk or to jump,
And to deck the sweet creature complete for a bride
Let the cork cutter make her a hump.
Thus finished in taste, while on Chloe you gaze,
You may take the dear charmer for life,
But never undress her—for, out of her stays,
You'll find you have lost half your wife.

One might describe, too, the curious coats, the many petticoats, the hats, all whalebone and queer shaped, and all the other oddities of the day, but with what use?

Style changes with every passing year, as do the fabrics, and the girl of 1911 is, you see, after all, no worse than the sisters who have gone before her down the annals of history.

In homes where father is strong for discipline the children believe father would have made a great tragedian had he taken to the stage.

LIBERALS' WRATH NOW TURNED ON SPAIN'S PREMIER

Canalejas Fails to Keep Promises and Is "Standing Pat."

LONDON.—(Spl.)—Premier Canalejas of Spain has made up his mind to "standpat." He isn't going to let the Republicans scare him. He intends to stick to it; that it was all right to kill Ferrer.

He has definitely made up his mind to defend the methods of the reactionaries whom he serves—though he calls himself a Liberal.

The chances are that Senor Canalejas has made a bad mistake. The Republicans have been trying to force him to declare himself for a long time. His straddling has delayed their program tremendously. Time and again the radical members of the Republican Party have said: "Canalejas is not a Liberal! at all. His Liberal promises are never fulfilled. We're getting nowhere. Spain is as much a despotism today as it was under Maura. We're tired of it. We want a Republic. Let's have our revolution at once."

To which the moderates have replied: "Wait a bit. He says he is a Liberal. Maybe he really is. Perhaps if we are not too precipitate we shall get a freer government without any violent upheaval. We're in favor of giving him a chance."

Hence discussion in the Republican ranks and a longer lease of life for King Alfonso. Finally the radical Republicans, led by Rodrigo Soriano, editor of Wapana Nueva and a member of the Chamber of Deputies, invented a scheme for driving the Premier into the open.

This scheme was for Senor Soriano to demand, from the floor of the Chamber, a revision of the Ferrer case.

If the Premier acceded to it, the Republicans counted on proving so clearly that Ferrer was murdered by King Alfonso's government, at that time under Premier Maura, as to drive the whole country mad with rage and upset the throne.

If he refused a revision or defended Ferrer's execution, his attitude would amount to a virtual admission of his reactionary sympathies and the moderates would lose their excuse for urging further delay.

There was only one obstacle in the way of fulfillment of this plan. The King and the Premier have the legal right to suspend a session of the Cortes whenever they choose and to keep it suspended as long as they like. That was just what King Alfonso and Premier Canalejas did.

Deputy Soriano had to postpone his demand for the Ferrer revision until the national legislature was called together again. This would probably have never been if his Majesty and Senor Canalejas could have had their own way.

The Spanish government was not strong enough, however, to disregard indications of a wide-spread flare-up so a call was issued for the re-assembling of the Cortes March 6.

In the meantime the Premier decided to defend the Ferrer killing. This puts him pretty distinctly in the reactionary class. Which is why he has probably made a mistake.

However, he was bound to make a mistake in any event. For if he had come out as a genuine Liberal, King Alfonso would have had his scalp.

In the forlorn hope of making his case good, Senor Canalejas is getting up a work of ten volumes of 1,000 pages each dealing with Ferrer's career.

Six volumes are devoted to evidence that the dead man implicated in the attempt to blow up King Alfonso and Queen Victoria in Madrid May 31, 1906, a charge on which he was tried and acquitted soon after the attempt was made.

Three volumes set forth the government's reasons for maintaining that he was concerned in the Barcelona riots in July, 1909, for which he was shot. The tenth is a recapitulation of his trial, with a wealth of detail to prove that it was absolutely fair.

The showing will no doubt convince the reactionaries, but not much of anyone else in Spain.

HAREM SKIRT IS BEING RULED OUT

PARIS.—(Spl.)—The harem skirt is falling into such disrepute in Paris that one of the Paris newspapers was today forced, under threat of a suit, to retract its statement that the harem skirt worn by a well known demimondaine at the Auteuil races recently, came from a certain dress-making establishment.

OLD TESTAMENT TIMES BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

THE SONG OF THE VINEYARD
Isaiah 5:1-12—May 21

"Let me sing to my Well-Beloved a song of my beloved touching his vineyard."

On this lesson, as to the last, we have a Divinely-inspired key, for the words were quoted by the Great Teacher and applied by him to the Jewish nation, as indeed the Prophet himself explains.

God is represented as having planted the nation of Israel as his own vineyard. He gathered out the stones, or removed the difficulties, and planted in it the choicest vine, the richest promises—promises of the Messianic Kingdom and the blessing of Israel and all the families of the earth. He provided a watch tower for it in the Prophecies and a hedge about it in the Law and the Prophets and in all the arrangements made for that holy nation.

It was proper that he should look for choice fruitage from so favorably-situated a vineyard, but the results were unsatisfactory. The fruitage was not in harmony with the promises he had planted, but wild grapes, sour, small.

The Beasts of the Field Have Ravished the Vineyard

This condition prevailed until the time of Jesus. Although troubles upon the nation were from time to time permitted by the Lord, the breaches were always healed and the nation was preserved. Its walls of Divine protection and guidance were maintained and its watch tower.

John the Baptist was the last of the Prophets. Since his day the Lord has fulfilled to natural Israel the things mentioned in this prophecy.

The hedges have been broken down. It has been laid waste. No care has been taken of it. The beasts of the field, the Gentile nations, have ravaged this vineyard and, by Divine intention, no rain of Divine blessing, comfort, encouragement and fructification have come upon the Jewish people in all these more than eighteen centuries.

Their unreadiness led to the breaking down of their entire system. They did not have love toward God, nor toward their fellows.

We are glad, indeed, to note from the Scriptures that the time is coming when that same vineyard shall be restored under still more favorable conditions, during the Messianic reign of glory and heavenly power. But it is still in disorder.

The majority of the Jews of our Lord Jesus' day were tinctured with selfishness and were not in a condition of mind acceptable to the Lord for constituting the spiritual, the Bride class—except the few, "the remnant," mentioned by the Prophet.

Application to Spiritual Israel

God's dealings with fleshly Israel not only represent the principles of Divine government and requirements, but also the requirements of natural Israel's service, as the Scriptures show, and they typify spiritual Israel. As natural Israel failed to be ready to accept Jesus at his first advent—except "the remnant"—so spiritual Israel, called "Christendom," will fail to be ready to receive him as the great Messiah at the establishment of His Kingdom.

Note the care with which the Lord planted His Church, gathering out all the difficulties at the time of its establishment. Note the heavenly, spiritual promises, exceeding great, with which He surrounded the Church, as His vineyard.

In the end of this Age comes a harvest time for spiritual Israel, as in the end of the Jewish Age there was a harvest time for natural Israel. Here, as there, only "a remnant" will be found worthy of the Kingdom—the great, nominal mass will be found unworthy. And why? Because the spirit of worldliness and selfishness is the prevalent one, instead of the spirit of the Lord, the spirit of meekness, gentleness, love. Only with the few is God first. Only with the few is there a spirit of full consecration to do the Divine will. Only with the few is there love of the brethren and a willingness to lay down life one for another. (John 15:13.) Only with the few is there even business honesty, justice. Today selfishness is heaping up treasure and the results, we may be sure, will be unsatisfactory—"a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation."—Dan. 12:1.

Moreover, as the Prophet proceeds to show, the accumulation of wealth has generally an injurious effect upon the rich—idleness, music and wine and disregard of things Divine. The "remnant" now will be a sufficient number to complete the "elect." The Kingdom of glory will be established and all the families of the earth will, shortly after the time of trouble, begin to recognize the long-promised blessing.

FRESH AIR.

Members of the human race require fresh air in winter as much as in summer. One can't breathe carbon dioxide three or four months in the year and keep in condition for the battle of life.

There appears to prevail a disposition to forget this fact at the season of the year when the fly screens go down into the cellar and storm-doors and windows come up.

Recently the government undertook to transport 1000 small-mouthed fingerling bass from a government hatchery to South America. During the trip from the hatchery in Michigan to New York city the messenger in charge of the fish, for a period of 45 hours, spent his time keeping them alive by hand aeration. On the voyage of 22 days from New York to Brazil the water in which the black bass lived was aerated by electrical apparatus which had been installed on the steamer.

There ought to be a lesson for housekeepers in this experiment with the fish. Every head of a household should solve the problem of the proper ventilation of his home in cold weather.

The children ought to have at least as good a chance to live as the fingerlings.

And in taking fresh air out of doors why not enjoy it?

Man a Working Machine

Man of today is as near a machine as he probably ever can become, and still exist. To keep him in perfect "running order" he has to be treated as such. Now, if your watch or auto has slipped a cog, or was "clogged up" with foreign matter threatening its very existence unless removed, would you apply acid or dope to rid it of foreign matter or to adjust its parts?

—As With Auto and Watch—so with the human body. It gets out of running order through the process of life and needs repairing. No defective machine can turn out good work. Every day that an "unclean" watch or auto or any other machine is compelled to run, wears seriously its vital parts and saps its vitality. The longer you try to work while the body machinery is out of gear, the greater will be the damage it suffers. Health depends upon the human machine being kept in good mechanical order. Adjustment of the human body is the particular and special work of—The Spaulding Osteopaths—

That they are expert body mechanicians, know what to do, and how to correctly fix what is mechanically wrong with the body structure is evidenced by kindly expressions of those who have given their treatment a fair trial. They make good every promise. They do not claim to perform miracles. Aid nature to health—that's all. Adjust the human machinery and nature makes the cure.

You are invited to call, consult and learn what ails you without charge on Tuesdays and Fridays, 117 South Jackson Street, Lady attendant.

PROHIBITION IS NOT SUCCESSFUL IN SWITZERLAND

Law Only Calls Attention to Absinthe—Use It Openly.

GENEVA — (Spl.)—Switzerland's abstinence prohibition law is proving a fizzle. Liquor dealers declare more of the drink is being consumed in the country now than before its manufacture and sale was prohibited.

Its sale is attended with some risk, it is true, but the demand is so enormous that it simply has to be met. Prohibition apparently called the Swiss people's attention to the fact that they liked absinthe.

There are various ways of getting it but the commonest one is for the would-be purchaser to tell the waiter in his favorite cafe: "I want to telephone." A minute afterward he goes into the booth and the absinthe is waiting for him on the telephone board. There isn't much concealment about it.

But if the new law hasn't done any good so far as the consumption of absinthe is concerned it has put a stop to its manufacture in Switzerland.

It put a big national industry in the Canton of Neuchâte entirely out of business because, in the face of the law, the drink is easier to import than it is to manufacture secretly.

The government is considering the allowance of between $300,000 and $500,000 to the ruined manufacturers. The manufacturers are trying to get about four times as much.

SOLDIERS USE GUNS

Prisoners Are Clubbed Into Submission—Further Trouble Feared

VITERBO, Italy—(Spl.)—Bloodshed was narrowly averted at this evening's session of the murder of the 39 captives in a fight that broke out among the prisoners, who were confined in a big steel cage close to the jury box.

Only the intervention of a small army of carabinieri who were stationed around the cage for just such an emergency, prevented tragic results.

It was at first thought that the fight was started as a signal for an attack by confederates of the prisoners and at first sign of trouble, a cordon of soldiers shut off all spectators from the front of the courtroom.

The carabinieri used the butte of their guns on the prisoners before order was finally restored. The outbreak threw the court into a terrific uproar, during which several persons fainted.

Two hundred armed soldiers superintended the loading of the prisoners into the three bullet-proof vans that conveyed them back to the Orsini monastery, which has been converted into a prison.

Judge Bianchi declared tonight that the trial would not be resumed until reinforcements of troops arrive, as this evening's trouble convinced him that desperate measures are contemplated by the prisoners and their friends.

After a jury had been tentatively accepted today and everything made ready for the submission of evidence, both the prosecution and the defense discovered disqualifications in several of the jurors and a new panel of 50 had to be called.

When court resumed this evening only four of this panel had appeared. Judge Bianchi sent soldiers out to round up the delinquents and after two hours enough men had responded from which to select 11 jurors.

As 24 jurors must be chosen, 12 to act as subs, it is not thought the box will be filled before Monday evening. Judge Bianchi, evidently unimpaired of the revengeful nature of the camerists, is doing everything to expedite the trial and has already indicated that the prisoners need expect no mercy at his hands.

The most dramatic feature of today's proceedings, excepting tonight's fight was when Ciro Vitozzi, the former priest, but now accused with the other camerists with the murder of Genaro Cuocolo and his wife, entered the courtroom which is the old San Francisco church.

Vitozzi once officiated as priest in this church and he was completely overcome when he neared the place where the altar stood where he had once worn his official robes. Several times he broke down and wept.

One of the first bits of evidence to be produced will be a report concerning Alfano's activities as a black-hander in New York which is signed by Joseph Petrosino, the New York detective, who was murdered in Palermo two years ago. The government believes it will be able to show that Alfano planned Petrosino's murder in revenge for the expulsion of himself and other blackhanders from the United States.

It is rumored tonight that the original confession of Genaro Abetamio, who turned state's evidence while supported by the confession of at least three other prisoners. These three confessed to a priest today and received the communion before the trial.

Do You Carry Chronic Grouch

"BILL GROUCH," your grouch has become such a component part of you that it seems to be your natural condition. People shun you, they talk about you behind your back, they roast you — and all this made you mighty unpopular.

And you are wondering why. You think they are all wrong, while the fact is you are all wrong. You are in the habit of belittling others, always saying mean things and wondering why you never hear any kind words or see any smiles. Don't you know that the world is like a big looking glass—it reflects what is in front of it?

Bill Smiles will tell you that if you want to see sunshine and hear laughter you must laugh and throw out sunshine.

Just because everything doesn't run as smoothly as you wish it to you fret yourself into a bad mental state and you say mean things, and your countenance shows the bad state of your mind.

Haven't you noticed that the world is always ready to help the man who is brave and cheerful, and always ready to kick the man who whines and acts the coward? If you go about looking for trouble and meanness you will find them. If you are suspicious of others and always afraid of being "skinned" you will generally find yourself in hot water.

Nobody cares to do business with you, few seek your company, and you have few friends, and it's all on account of your disagreeable manner, your coldness, your foreboding presence.

Grouch Is Only Habit.

This grouch of yours is going to ruin your stomach, your health and your business unless you wake up and get rid of the habit. It is a habit.

When a member of the Grouch Lodge fails in business he gets no sympathy and the world says "glad of it, good enough for him." And the grouch has a lot of enemies who are constantly knocking him and fighting him until he gets to be like a coyote in a corner, whose whole thought is fight.

You look upon business as a fight and you are always scrapping and snarling and carrying a chip on your shoulder.

Your grouch has made you a pessimist, and the world has no use for such. Your finish will be bad unless you change your actions. Think what a miserable outlook you have unless you make the change. All your life will be unhappy, and when you die there will be no one to mourn your departure. It is not only yourself to be considered, but the many persons who have suffered through your grouch.

Here are some of the things you have done: You have kicked to the waiter for being slow with your meal, and after you finished your lunch you loafed for half an hour gossiping. You have scolded an employee for something he was not to blame for. You have spoken harshly to some one who had to stand it and that some one's heart was full of sorrow and your mean action on top of that sorrow produced untold suffering.

"Roasting" Your Occupation.

You have complained in your home about cooking and other things and that poor wife or mother has been toiling and working and doing her level best; your words were cruel and cowardly. It would open your eyes if you would stay at home a week and do the housework.

You have made your home a boarding place—you only go to it to eat and sleep. You go out in the morning after saying a few mean things about the breakfast; you return home for supper, then go to the club or lodge or out with "the boys." You leave that wife or mother alone, and that kind of alone is torture—that wife or mother is a slave and all because of you. You "roast" the clerk of whom you buy, you "roast" the service on the railroad on which you travel.

You "roast" the man who comes in to collect the bill that's overdue. You kick about every purchase you make.

Your whole life is destroy, tear down, knock, hurt and kill, and you wonder why you are unhappy. You are a noxious weed in the flower garden of love and smiles.

You are fit to associate only with others of your clan. You and the rest of the Grouch Tribe should be put in a pit and left to scrap it out until the whole bunch was destroyed and the pit covered over with dirt and flowers planted so that your carcass could be used as a fertilizer, and thus the world would get some benefit of you.

HOLLAND PAWN IN GREAT GAME OF STRATEGISM

Proposal to Fortify Coast Brings on Great Row in Europe.

BERLIN—[Special]—Holland, the most inoffensive country in Europe, has become the latest pawn in the game of international politics.

It all came about in this way: The Netherlands proposed to spend $15,000,000 to fortify Flushing, The Scheldt and the North Sea coast. No doubt the entire seaboard is inadequately protected and in the case of no other country would there have been any objection raised to the program.

But in this instance a tremendous row was created. And as is the rule in international political questions in the world today, Germany and England were the powers chiefly involved.

Holland is Germany's natural outlet to the sea. Its coasts are difficult of approach on account of the sandbanks which interfere with deep draught navigation. No warships can approach them except by way of the main harbors.

But possession of this coast would enormously benefit German commerce in time of war with Germany. England would try to land on Dutch soil. Unfortified, there could be little resistance.

Then a land force could readily make a dash against Germany, at the same time remaining comparatively near its base—and safely at sea. But with a fortified coast the enterprise would be exceedingly difficult.

Naturally, when the Dutch plan leaked out, it was instantly suspected in London and Paris that Holland had entered into a secret treaty with Germany.

Color was lent to these suspicions by the fact that the fortifications could not possibly be of any value except against England.

Apart from this, it was clear that the fortification of the Dutch coast must infringe Belgium's neutrality, which the powers guaranteed by the treaty of 1839.

That is to say, inasmuch as the River Scheldt commands approach to Antwerp, Belgium would be involved in the unpleasantness the moment Holland closed the stream to navigation.

Not wishing to be drawn into any European conflict, Belgium has therefore been protesting vigorously against being imperilled.

As a matter of fact there is small doubt that, even though the kaiser has made no definite arrangement with the Dutch to fortify their coast, he would be willing to make any offer in reason to get them to do so.

In any event, in time of war, he would probably seize the country without compunction.

There is little question that English and French statesmen think, too, that the fortification program, if carried out, will make Holland even more tempting to Germany than at the present time.

All sorts of assurances have of course been given from Berlin to The Hague that Dutch independence will be respected. But even here there is a good deal of cynical wondering—remembering the recent Bosnia-Herzegovina grab by Germany's ally, Austria—how much dependence is to be placed upon such promises.

Is the kaiser likely, Germans ask, to resist any temptation of achieving his ambition for a long line of seaboard? It is generally agreed here that, now the Dutch have shown signs of yielding to Germany, the days of its independence are numbered.

Many Dutchmen, too, are afraid of this, as they have said openly in the parliamentary debates on the subject at The Hague. It was this party which, while Queen Wilhelmina remained childless, was in mortal terror lest the crown should pass, on her death, to a German prince and which swore it would rather transform the country into a republic than be ruled by a German.

At any rate, Holland has had the satisfaction of knowing that, for the past few weeks, it has attracted more attention in Europe than at any other time since the seventeenth century.

Press Skirt Twice

It can be of help to the amateur dressmakers to know that skirt seams should always be pressed twice, as soon as they are sewed and once again after they are finished with tailor's stitching.

In this way the puckers, which are so discouraging to the home sewer, will be eliminated. The seam must be pressed on the wrong side with a dampened cloth and the iron run over the cloth until both it and the skirt are quite dry.

For soreness of the muscles whether induced by violent exercise or injury, Chamberlain's Liniment is excellent. This liniment is also highly esteemed for the relief it affords in cases of rheumatism. Sold by all dealers.

WIRELESS WIZARD ON FRESH TRACK

MARCONI NOW EXPERIMENTING WITH A NEW KIND OF AN AIRSHIP.

WILL RISE EASILY

Operator Will Send Messages by Wireless Describing What He Sees.

London, England—The invention of the wireless telegraph is endeavoring to perfect an aeroplane that will rise directly from any spot and that will carry wireless apparatus of sufficient strength to send messages in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Marconi explained his views in an interview recently, emphasizing the value of the adaptation of the wireless on an aeroplane in peace or war, and stating that he would probably fly himself in connection with his experiments.

"I am now working on an aeroplane for a syndicate in which I am interested," he said. "Important experiments have been made already with the machine, which at present is housed near London."

"It is a monoplane, and in general design does not differ materially from existing types. When completed, however, it will combine what we consider to be the best points of all the present makes in addition to several new features."

"Not the least of these, I hope, will be one whereby the machine will be able to rise from any position. In this connection I can only say that we are making an interesting series of experiments with propellers and other parts designed to give a sharp upward thrust or lift, and that I am very hopeful of the result."

"The installation of effective wireless apparatus does not present any very grave difficulties with the right type of machine."

"In existing types of aeroplanes the whole of the pilot's attention has apparently to be concentrated on the machine itself. Unless and until this is adjusted it will be necessary to carry an additional passenger to operate the wireless instruments installed on any machine."

"Imagine," he said, "the pilot poised in his machine in view of the enemy's position. By the aid of the wireless installation he would be able not only to transmit his observations immediately to headquarters but without leaving his post."

"He would thus be enabled to communicate any change of position on the part of the enemy, the very latest developments, in fact, from time to time, keeping his own headquarters in the enemy."

Mr. Marconi has the true scientist's disdain for danger, if necessary to his work.

"Provided I can evolve a suitable machine," he said, "provided also that time permits, I shall not hesitate to take to the air myself. I consider that the toll the air has already taken merely emphasizes the need for taking every possible precaution against accidents."

"My future action will depend, however, on the results of experiments that are either pending or are being made already."

They are telling a good story on Walter Jeffries, of Roachdale. According to the story, Mr. Jeffries was burning some trash in his back yard at his home a few days ago. When he brought the last load to the fire, the heat was so great that he could not get close to the burning trash. With a mighty heave, Mr. Jeffries threw the last arm load far into the blaze. With the last arm load of trash, a fine gold watch belonging to Mr. Jeffries, also went into the fire. A small twig had caught in the watch chain and when he threw the trash, the twig had pulled the watch with it.

Owing to the fact that Hon. Seaborn Wright, of Georgia, would be unable to come to Brazil on Sunday, May 28th, a change was made by the "drys" in the arrangements for their campaign and Mr. Wright will address a mass meeting at the Sourwine theatre on next Monday night. The campaign will come to a close with a meeting at the Masonic temple on Sunday afternoon, May 28th, when Judge Blair, of Ohio, a noted temperance orator, will speak. Brazil News. Mr. Wright was one of the "dry" speakers in the recent option campaign in this city.

The horse driven to the Owl Drug store delivery wagon ran away late Friday afternoon and before it stopped the wagon had been demolished. Ralph Hill, clerk at the Owl store, had driven the horse to the interurban station to get some express and had started back to the store, when suddenly the horse started to run. The animal turned west on Poplar street and gained speed so rapidly that the driver finally decided that the speed was too great for safety and made a flying leap from the wagon. His hands and arm were badly bruised when he lit in the gravel at the side of the street. When the horse attempted to turn onto Madison street the wagon hit a tree, and was badly wrecked. The horse kept on running and did not stop until it reached the north end of town. The driver is at a loss to know what the horse scared at or why it suddenly decided to run away.

"Uncle Jim" Hurst, who has developed into quite an automobile salesman in the past year, decided a short time ago that to be a real salesman one must be able to drive a car. And so Jim had several of the buggies in the large buggy room moved so that there was room to run an auto up and down the room. For several days he practiced and learned to run a car. He then ventured out on the streets and ran around the square several times without mishap. Gaining courage he asked a friend to accompany him and started out the East Washington pike. Every thing went all right until he got ready to turn back and then a problem confronted him. He could not turn around. But Jim was resourceful and at the first gate which opened into a field he stopped and opening the gate drove in. With several acres of room to work in Jim managed to get the machine headed west and arrived home in safety.

The play, "Esmeralda", presented by the senior class of the high school at the opera house Friday night was a success in every way. The play was well acted and more than a success financially. Already there has been entered a request that "Esmeralda" be repeated. Parties who could not be present have said "Give it again; we will be present." Can you not repeat the play, we wish to hear it? The result is that the high school authorities will take the matter under advisement, consult with the pupils, and decide later.

REFUSED TO ACCEPT OIL.
Ladoga Did Not Want the Number Four Kind.

The twelve thousand gallons of road oil ordered for Ladoga streets reached here the first of the week in two tank cars, but it was not accepted. This town has used the Standard's No. 2 Crude oil and also No. 4 heavy oil said to contain a certain percentage of asphalt. The No. 2 used two years ago, proved to be satisfactory, the other, used last year, was far from satisfactory and the "asphalt" in it seemed to dry and make a light dust that was scattered by every wind.

The agreement for this year was that No. 2 oil should be used, the money was raised to pay for it and it was ordered. Some Standard oil man made a mistake or intentionally changed the order. When the No. 4 oil came it was refused and an order for No. 2 oil was wired to headquarters. The first shipment was sent on to North Salem.

The No. 2 oil is expected here soon and in the meantime we are getting the full benefit of such clouds of street dust as have not been seen here before in many years.—Ladoga Leader.

While playing with a number of other children about 11 o'clock this morning, Phillip Sellers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sellers, who live on South Jackson street fell and broke his left arm just above the elbow. ### "A Welcome Chance to Those Who Suffer"

Coming to Greencastle, Indiana, on Thursday, May 25th to stay at the Belnap Hotel.

DR. ALBERT MILTON FINCH

of Jamestown, Ind.

ONE DAY ONLY

Consultation and Examination Confidential, Invited and FREE

To see all of his regular Patients and such new Cases, as may wish to consult him, Dr. Finch enjoys a state wide reputation, among the profession and the Public of Indiana, where for more than Forty Years he has devoted his entire time to the Study, Treatment and Cure of Chronic Diseases. The Doctor has had wonderful success in his chosen work, that of curing chronic sufferers, Men, Women and Children. The Patients he has restored to health after they had given up all hope of being Cured are numbered by the Thousands. He is a kind, generous, democratic gentleman to meet, of high scholarly attainments, and dignified personality. Coupled with a Fatherly interest, in all who seek his advice. He does not take a Patient for Treatment unless he can foresee a Cure of the Case. The most commendable feature of his work, and one that appeals to the ordinary sick person, is the fact of his charges being so reasonable and moderate as to make it within the reach of even the very poor. At no time do the charges amount to more than $7.00 a month or about $1.50 a week. He gives his own medicines, and there are no extra Charges. It takes him never more than from four to six Months to Cure a Case under Treatment. All Cases, even those who have been given up as Incurable or Hopeless, have been Cured and restored to perfect health by this Brilliant Physician and the wonderful methods he employs.

If you want to meet him and have him examine you, go to see him, and talk the matter over with him. It will cost you nothing if he does not put you under treatment. If he takes your case, it will cost you a very small sum to get well.

*Remember the Date—Thurs., May 25 and come early.

The commencement exercises of the senior class of the Ladoga high school will be held Friday evening, June 2. The services of Prof. Rufus Bernhardt von KleinSmid have been secured. Prof. KleinSmid is counted as one of the leading educators of this state and comes highly recommended as a commencement speaker. The Crawfordsville orchestra and the Ladoga high school will furnish the music for the occasion.—Crawfordsville Review.

DePAUW PROTESTS CAPTAIN ELLIOTT

But He is Reinstated by a Vote of the Members of the Colleges of the League.

On the eve of the big meet a scare was thrown into the camp of the Little Giants when DePauw filed a protest against Capt. Bob Elliott. During the winter months Elliott has been acting as assistant to Coach Harper in the gymnasium work. Learning of this DePauw wrote here to know if it was a fact, and being informed that it was a protest was filed against Elliott participating in the coming state meet because of ineligibility. The matter was referred to Prof. Waldo of Washington University, St. Louis, who is arbiter of the A. A. U. rules under which the meet is to be conducted. He decided that under the rules Elliott was ineligible, and accordingly Wabash forfeited to DePauw a previous meet held at Greencastle which the scarlet won. To have Elliott reinstated it was necessary to submit the question of his eligibility to the seven colleges of the I. C. A., and this was done with the result that all voted favorable to reinstatement except Earlham, and as it only took a majority the captain of the scarlet squad will be eligible to compete Saturday, and he is almost sure of two firsts, he being the only other contestant who it is believed has a chance to defeat Schladerman, the DePauw entry in the high and low hurdles. In the vote DePauw voted to reinstate Capt. Elliott and in notifying the local management of their vote stated that they would be here Saturday with a good bunch of rooters and expected to win the meet.—Crawfordsville Daily Journal.

DECLINES POSITION WITH MICHIGAN TRACTION CO.

G. K. Jeffries Will Remain With the T. R. L. & E. Interurban Company.

G. K. Jeffries, general superintendent of the T. H. L. & E. system, was recently offered a position as general manager of the Michigan United Traction system at a salary of $5,000 per year. The salary is more than he is receiving at the present and the offer was a tempting one, but Mr. Jeffries declined it, deciding to remain with the T. H. L. & E., his employment being not only congenial but also residence in Indianapolis being to his liking.
